SIR HENRY MORGAN, BUCCANEER

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY.

Author of "The Southerners," "For Love of Country," "The Grip of Honor," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

"I didn't have to. They think that one of them is mine. No hue or cry will be raised and no search made for me. Do you arrange that the crew of the Mary Rose be given liberty for the evening yonder at the Blue Anchor. They've not been ashore yet, I take it?"

"No, but they will go tomorrow."

"That's well. Meanwhile gather together the bold fellows who have stomach for a cruise and are willing to put their heads through the halter provided there are pieces of eight on the other side, and then we'll take the frigate tomorrow night and away for the Spanish main. That will give us a start. We'll pick up what we can along the coast first, then scuttle the ship, cross the isthmus, seize another and have the whole south seas before us—Peru, Manila, wherever we will."

"The king has a long arm."

"Yes, and other kings have had long arms, too, I take it, but they have not caught Harry Morgan nor ever shall. Come, man, will you go with me?"

"Never fear," answered Hornigold promptly. "I've been itching for a chance to cut somebody's throat. Where will you lay him until tomorrow night?"

"I have thought of that," said Morgan promptly. "I think the best place will be the cabin of your pinnace. I'll just get aboard, Black Dog here and I, and put to sea. Tomorrow night at this hour we'll come back again, and you will find us here at the wharf."

"A good plan, Master Morgan," cried Hornigold, forgetting the title as the scheme unfolded itself to him. "What's o'clock, I wonder?"

"As he spoke the sound of a bell tapped softly came floating over the quiet water from the Mary Rose.

"Four bells," answered Morgan, listening; "at 10 of the clock, then, I shall be here."

"Leave the rest to me, sir," answered Hornigold.

"I shall. That will be your boat yonder?"

"Aye. Just beyond the point."

"Is anybody aboard of her?"

"No one."

"Is there rum and water enough for one day?"

"Plenty. In the locker in the cuddy."

"Good! Come, Carib! Until tomorrow night then!"

"Aye, aye, sir!" said Hornigold, leaning over the pier and watching the boat fade into a black blur on the water as it drew away toward the pinnace.

"He's mine, by heaven, he's mine!" he whispered under his breath as he turned and walked slowly up to the house.

It was late when Hornigold returned to the parlor of the Blue Anchor inn. Half the company were drunk on the floor under the tables. The rest were singing or shouting or cursing in accordance with their several moods.

By his orders the inn servants at once cleared the room of the vainly protesting revelers. Those whose appearance indicated a degree of respectability which promised payment for their accommodation were put to bed. The common sort were bundled unceremoniously out on the strand before the door and left to sober up as best they might in the soft tropic night. Teach, Raveau and the Brazilian were detained for conference with the boat-swain. To these worthies, therefore, Hornigold unfolded Morgan's plan, which they embraced with alacrity, promising each to do his share. Velsers was too stupidly drunk to be told anything, but they knew they could count upon him without fail.

CHAPTER III.

THE next morning, after waiting a reasonable time for a message from the two soldiers at Spanish Town, Lord Carlingford, the new governor, who had taken up his residence temporarily at Port Royal, summoned his attendants and himself repaired to the seat of government to ascertain why no further report had been received from his officers. Great was his astonishment when he found that the residence of the vice governor had been destroyed by fire during the night. The frightened slaves could tell nothing. Morgan and Carib had taken care that no one had marked their departure. Consequently when the search of the ruins revealed the remains of three bodies so badly charred as to be unrecognizable it was naturally inferred at first that they were those of the buccaneer and the two unfortunate officers. It was known among the people of the place, however, that Lady Morgan had been seriously ill, so ill that she could not have been there, and there were some who suspected that one of the bodies was hers and that the arch fiend himself had by some means disposed of the officers and escaped. Therefore a hue and cry was raised for him and a strict search instituted by order of the governor, who, after setting affairs in motion, returned to Port Royal.

Troops were accordingly ordered out, and even details of surly seamen, growling at being deprived of their accustomed shore liberty, were detailed from the frigate, which happened to be the only war vessel in commission in the harbor. Hornigold, Raveau and one or two of the others known to be former companions of the buccaneer were closely interrogated, but they stoutly declared they did not know his whereabouts and had seen nothing of him. Later in the afternoon it was observed that Hornigold's pinnace was not in the harbor. Indeed, with cunning adroitness, that master mariner himself called attention to the fact, cursing the while his old commander for his alleged theft of the boat and declaring his willingness to join in the search for him. It was known to the authorities that the execution of the boatswain's brother by Morgan had shattered the old intimacy which subsisted between them; consequently his protestations were given credence, and suspicion of collusion was diverted from him.

Lord Carlingford finally determined to send the Mary Rose to sea in an endeavor to overhaul the pinnace in the hope that the former vice governor might be found on her, although the chances of success were but faint. The frigate, however, was not provisioned or watered for a cruise after her long voyage from England. There had been considerable scurry and other sickness on the ship, and she was in no condition to weigh anchor immediately. She would have to be resupplied and the sick men in her crew replaced by drafts from the shore. Besides, in accordance with the invariable custom, the great majority of the men had been given shore leave for that afternoon and evening, and those few who were not on duty were carousing at the Blue Anchor inn and similar taverns.

The frightened slaves could tell nothing and would be utterly unable to work the ship should they be called upon to do so without being given a chance to sober up. This would take time, and Lord Carlingford upon the representations of his sea officers decided to wait until the morning before commencing work.

As he could do so, not only personally, but through his able lieutenants, Hornigold busied himself during the day and the preceding night in enlisting as vicious a gang of depraved ruffians as could be gathered together in what was perhaps the wickedest city in the world. It had been decided after conference between the leaders that there was no place within the confines of Port Royal itself where so many men could meet without exciting suspicion. He had accordingly appointed a rendezvous for the night across the narrow entrance to the harbor, opposite the fort, under the trees which overshadowed the strand, some distance back from high water mark. Singly or in groups of two or three the men had gone across in boats after sunset, successfully eluding observation, for the night was moonless and very dark.

There was rum in plenty under the trees on the point, but care was taken by Rock Brazillano, Raveau and the others, even including Velsers, that no one should drink enough to lose entire control of his faculties or to become obstreperous. No fires were lighted; no smoking was permitted. Strict silence was enjoined and enforced. It was perhaps 10 o'clock before all were assembled.

When morning had cleared their brains of the rum they had taken, there had been ferocious opposition on the part of the older men. Not that they objected to buccaneering. They were eager for the chance once more. But the memory of Morgan's betrayals of his old comrades rankled deep. There were many besides Hornigold who had promised themselves the luxury of vengeance upon their old commander. There were none, however, who had so dwelt upon it as the boatswain, nor were there any whose animosity and determination compared to his fierce hatred. He was therefore able at last to persuade them into a surlily willingness to accept Morgan as their captain in this new enterprise. Indeed, without him there was no one who possessed the ability or experience to lead them save he. The best men of the old stamp were now in the south seas and far away; they had been driven from the Caribbean. It was not difficult for Hornigold to show them that it must be Morgan or no one.

Their feelings of animosity were, therefore, smothered beneath the surface, although they seethed still within their breasts. They would go with him, they said. But let him look to himself, they swore threateningly. If he betrayed them again there were men among them who would kill him as remorselessly as they would stamp on a centipede. If he behaved himself and the expedition on which he was to lead them proved successful they might forgive him—all but old Hornigold. Truth to tell, there was no one among them who felt himself so wronged or so badly treated as the one-eyed envenomed sailor.

STRIKE IS BROKEN

End of Chicago Conflict Is Promised For This Week.

EMPLOYERS WINNING

Wagons Are Now Being Operated Without Opposition From the Listless Strikers.

With Defeat Confronting Them the Latter Are Preparing for Capitulation.

Chicago, May 17.—Although no facts have as yet transpired to fully warrant the prediction, it is asserted both by members of the employers' association and by the conservative element in the ranks of the teamsters that the present strike will be called off, probably within forty-eight hours, and certainly by the end of the week. It is thought that definite action looking to an adjustment of the trouble will be taken at the meeting of the national officers of the teamsters' union which it is expected will be held here tonight.

Chief among the causes which lead to the prediction of a settlement are the firm stand taken by Mayor Dunne, when in conference with President Shea and officials of the local teamsters' union, he assured them that any further spread of the strike would certainly make it necessary for him to call for troops, and the arrival of President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, who reached the city last evening. Although not possessed of executive power in the settlement of the strike, President Gompers declared that he had every hope that its end was not far distant.

"It was my intention to come to Chicago anyway, at the end of the week," said Mr. Gompers, "but after holding a conversation over the telephone with Mr. Shea I decided to anticipate my visit somewhat, and came at once. I certainly shall do all in my power to end the strike, and I have great hopes of success."

Immediately after leaving his train, President Gompers went into conference with President Shea and local officials of the teamsters' union. This conference lasted until a late hour last night.

The employers' association and the express companies have increased their scope of delivery still further. Something over 2,000 wagons are in use and business for the most part is transacted without hindrance of any kind. There were a few cases of small-sized rioting which were dispersed by a few policemen, who used their clubs in vigorous fashion. The merchants and department stores are confident that they will be able to extend their operations still further tomorrow, and have at least 2,300 wagons in full service. Three hundred and fifty men were brought into the city yesterday to take the places of strikers, and as many more are expected today.

At the hearing before Master in Chancery Sherman, where evidence is being taken relative to the federal injunctions issued against the strikers, F. K. Buckminster, superintendent of a private detective agency, cited fully two dozen instances of where assaults had been committed on non-union men and the federal injunction violated. He gave names and localities and asserted that the majority of the rioters were wearing the buttons of the teamsters' union. The attorneys for the defendants made vigorous objection to the admission of his testimony, but the master allowed it to go in.

John H. Donahue, a guard on a United States Express company wagon on which was used after the commencement of the teamsters' strike for the transfer of government money, evaded many questions put to him by the attorney for the plaintiffs on the ground that he did not wish to incriminate himself. It was sought to show by Donahue that he had been provided by the union with a pass, allowing the passage through the streets of the money. But he refused to make such admission. He did not deny that he had such a pass, neither would he admit it.

INSUFFICIENT PROVOCATION

Court Holds College Boy to Answer for Shooting.

Chicago, May 17.—Henry Cunningham, a student at Cornell university, has been held to the criminal court in bonds of $500. The charge against Cunningham was assault with a deadly weapon, preferred by Henry VanDyke, who was shot at Desplaines and West Adams streets a week ago. Cunningham is one of a party of six Cornell students who were brought to Chicago three weeks ago by the express companies to be employed as guards on wagons. He was acting as conductor on an Adams Express company wagon when he fired the shot which struck VanDyke. Cunningham said he fired at a man named George Livingstone, who was throwing stones at him. Witnesses were produced who testified that Livingstone was merely stooping for a baseball which he had dropped. The magistrate said there was insufficient provocation for the shooting and that Cunningham, who had been in the army, was too easily frightened.

EDITORS IN DEMAND

Indiana Would Like to Entertain the National Association.

Indianapolis, May 17.—The Commercial club may extend an invitation to the National Editorial association to hold its 1906 annual meeting in Indianapolis. The matter has already been informally discussed. The association meets this year at Guthrie, Okla., June 7, 8 and 9, and will take a trip through California and to the Lewis and Clarke exposition at Portland. Throughout Indiana much interest is manifested in the suggestion that the meeting next year be held in Indianapolis. The following have expressed a desire to entertain the national editors for one day: Mayor, citizens and Commercial club of Logansport and Fort Wayne; directors of the Commercial club, Crawfordsville; merchants and managers of sanitariums of Martinsville, and Thomas Taggart of the French Lick Springs Hotel company. The directors of the Winoona assembly will extend courtesies. The editorial meetings are national in their scope and interest and would be of great benefit to the city and state.

MANUFACTURERS MEET

National Association in Convention at Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., May 17.—More than 200 of the 3,000 members of the National Association of Manufacturers, accompanied by a hundred ladies, assembled at the opening of the tenth annual meeting of the association. Representatives from almost every section of the country were present. The importance of the gathering was indicated by the fact that the membership represents a large majority of the thirteen billions of dollars of invested capital of the United States, and by the additional fact that among the questions to be discussed during the three days' sessions are interstate commerce and reciprocity. That strongly diverse views upon the former subject are entertained was manifested in the discussions of the initial session when opposition to government control of transportation rates was sounded.

Tragic Incident of the Strike.

Chicago, May 17.—Enoch Carlson, eight years of age, was shot and killed last night by a colored man, a former employee of the Peabody Coal company, which has sustained an active part in the teamsters' strike. Two colored men were walking along Twenty-seventh street when some boys hooted at them. One of the colored men drew a revolver and fired at the boys. The bullet struck the Carlson boy in the left groin. He died while being taken to the hospital. The negroes escaped.

Charged With Bank Robbery.

New York, May 17.—Detectives have arrested two men and a woman, who they allege were the ringleaders of a gang that robbed the private bank of E. C. Brewer in Gilbertsville, N. Y., recently of about $10,000. The prisoners gave their names as Edward Watson, thirty-one years old, a musician; Mabel Watson, twenty-one years old, supposed to be his wife, and John Mullin, twenty-five years old, a painter.

Kaiser's Thanks Extended.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 17.—The executive committee and supreme officers of the Evangelical church of North America are in session here. A note was read from Consul Pollier of Cincinnati, expressing the thanks of the German emperor for congratulations of the society on the completion of the Berlin cathedral. The initial session was devoted to hearing reports.

NO WAY OUT OF IT

Shippers of Certain Lines Have to Bow to the Will of Armour.

DOWNRIGHT MONOPOLY

President of the Armour Car Lines Gives Evidence Before Senate Committee.

Producers and Shippers of Fruit Have to Accept the Rates Laid Down.

Washington, May 17.—Before the senate committee on interstate commerce which is investigating railroad rates, President George R. Robbins of the Armour Car Lines company admitted that the company had twenty or thirty exclusive contracts with railroads for fruit transportation business and acknowledged a monopoly of that traffic in parts of the West and South. Wherever these exclusive contracts applied he admitted the producers and shippers of fruit had to accept the rates laid down by the Armours. He claimed that his company was a private one and therefore not subject to the interstate commerce laws. Mr. Robbins, who was the star witness of the day and appeared to continue his testimony of yesterday, was closely examined by the committee regarding the operation of the Armour interests. These exclusive contracts with railroads, he said, were generally private contracts, though exhibited when requested. He asserted that the Armours do not get any advantages over other shippers in those cars. Replying to Chairman Elkins, the witness said that his company did not want to be subject to the interstate commerce laws. "It seems," interjected Mr. Elkins, "that you have all the advantages and none of the responsibilities of common carriers."

According to the witness, the Armours have 200 articles known as packing-house products which are transported in Armour cars. "You control the transportation of these products in the private cars," remarked Senator Kean.

"Not control, but the Armours ship their products in these cars."

Mr. Robbins admitted that on roads where they had exclusive contracts like the Pere Marquette line, the roads could not engage in the shipment of the products covered in the contract, in other cars. Those who complained on this matter, he added, were mostly receivers and commission men, and not the producers and shippers.

Senator Dilliver asked Mr. Robbins regarding the business of the Armour Car Lines and its earnings. Mr. Robbins insisted that the company is a private one and ought not to be compelled to expose its books or earnings any more than any other private company.

"Unless we should consider that you are a public carrier the same as a railroad company," remarked Senator Dilliver.

Mr. Robbins denied that the Armours were interested in any of the fruit companies in California, or that the Armours had a monopoly of the transportation of California fruits, acknowledging, however, that his company had a monopoly of the fruit transportation in the Pere Marquette region and in Georgia and Florida. The Armours, he admitted, had exclusive contracts with all the South Atlantic coast states railways, exclusive contracts in eastern Tennessee, and on certain roads in Missouri and Arkansas, and on the Southern Pacific road. The Santa Fe was a competing line in the fruit business in California. Fruit producers and shippers on these exclusive lines had to accept the rates of the Armour company.

HOSPITALS CROWDED

MAJORITY OF PATIENTS WOMEN

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Saves Many From this Sad and Costly Experience.

It is a sad but true fact that every year brings an increase in the number of operations performed upon women in our hospitals. More than three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow white beds are women and girls who are awaiting or recovering from operations made necessary by neglect. Every one of these patients had plenty of warning in that bearing down feeling, pain at the left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, leucorrhoea, dizziness, flatulency, displacements of the womb or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb, and if not heeded the trouble will make headway until the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation, and a lifetime of impaired usefulness at best, while in many cases the results are fatal.

The following letter should bring hope to suffering women. Miss Luella Adams, of the Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "About two years ago I was a great sufferer from a severe female trouble, pains and headaches. The doctor prescribed for me, finally told me that I had a tumor on the womb and must undergo an operation if I wanted to get well. I felt that this was my death warrant, but I spent hundreds of dollars for medicine, but the tumor kept growing. Fortunately I corresponded with an aunt in the New England States, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was said to cure tumors. I did so and immediately began to improve in health, and I was entirely cured, the tumor disappearing entirely, without an operation. I wish every suffering woman would try this great preparation."

Just as surely as Miss Adams was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman in the land who suffers from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability and nervous prostration.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all young women who are ill to write her for free advice. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Hints of Collusion.

Chicago, May 17.—An attempt was made by the federal grand jury which is investigating the affairs of the beef packing industry, to show that the cattle buyers at packing concerns and certain commission firms, met each morning and agreed upon the prices to be paid for livestock during the day. Evidence along this line was sought from C. B. Van Norman, head of the Van Norman Commission company, and S. P. Ingerson, of Rosenbaum Bros., commission concern, who were on the stand.

Big Yacht Race Postponed.

New York, May 17.—The yachts which have been entered for the 3,000 mile race across the Atlantic ocean for the $5,000 cup offered by the German emperor, are at anchor within the shelter of Sandy Hook, waiting for the start of the race, which had to be postponed because of the fog. A dense blanket of mist hung all day over the Hook and the sea outside where the start was to have been made.

Alabama Needs Laborers.

Birmingham, Ala., May 17.—To meet the demand for more labor in this state the railroads entering Alabama have just concluded an arrangement for the establishment of an immigration and industrial bureau here, which will co-operate with the state authorities, and the various industrial and commercial bodies with a view to bringing desirable immigrants to the state.

OSCAR HADLEY, of Plainfield, has let it be known that he will be a candidate for the nomination for state treasurer at the next republican state convention.

SENATOR THOS. MOORE, of Greencastle, is a probable candidate for congress in the Fifth district. It is evident that Congressman Holliday will have a hard fight for renomination. He must keep busy if he hopes to win.

A CHICAGO University professor has abandoned the university community and is living in a hut on the lake front so as to avoid unbecoming surroundings. Here is a man that is evidently in love with himself.

THE Modern Woodmen Log Rolling and Foresters Encampment along with the Carnival that week means a great week for Seymour. The committees are already at work and the people are showing a decided interest.

THE Governor and other members of the Southeastern Indiana Hospital Commission will visit Seymour next Wednesday, May 24th, and inspect the different sites on which options have been secured. They will have a busy day for it will keep them moving to get over all the sites.

ALREADY Nan Patterson has signed a contract to appear on the stage in New York City at a weekly price of $2,000. The theatre manager has an idea that the people of the metropolis will flock to hear her sing just as they went to the court room when she was on trial for murder.

THERE are a few people who would like to have the anti-cigarette law declared unconstitutional. But the fathers and mothers whose boys were smoking cigarettes every day and in many instances injuring their health very materially, are not talking that way. The cigarette is a positive evil and there is no good excuse for it. It benefits no one and its use harms many and offends many more.

THE republicans of the First district won a decided victory in the special congressional election Tuesday, electing Judge John H. Foster to succeed former congressman, James A. Hemenway, by a safe majority. Judge Foster is a strong man, an able lawyer with twelve years service on the bench, and a very popular man personally. His election will be pleasing to republicans over the state.

EVEN the school children of Chicago have caught the strike fever and from six schools the boys and girls have walked out in defiance of their teachers and the rules of their schools. Their grievance is said to be based on the fact that the coal used at these buildings was delivered by non-union drivers. That sort of a spirit in the Chicago schools is not very encouraging and may mean a vast amount of trouble later on when these school children grow up.

Taylorville Too.

It has been learned that Taylorville is making a bid for the Southeastern Indiana Hospital. An option on a site near the corporate limits of that village has been secured and it is said that the Commission will make their first stop at Taylorville when they start out next Tuesday and view that site before going to Columbus.

Charlestown is also getting ambitious and has sent a delegation of two men to see the Governor and let him know that a site can be had near that place and to extend an invitation to the commission to stop and see it. Other candidates may bob up before the week ends.

River Falling.

The river has receded and is again in its banks. The overflow did considerable damage in the low bottoms and much corn that was planted before the rains will have to be replanted. It is probable that more damage was done along the Muscatatuck than along White river.

Alt Brandt will leave within a few days for Frankfort, Kentucky, where he has been engaged to play with a park theatre band during the summer.

Rev. Z. T. Sweeney Has Narrow Escape.

Rev. Z. T. Sweeney State Fish Commissioner, and one of the best known men throughout Indiana, came near losing his life Tuesday evening in a peculiar manner. He had been at work in his office which is just back of his residence and about four o'clock he began getting ready to go to Bedford to attend a meeting there. He has a bath room adjoining his office. In this is a gas heater used for heating the water. He lighted this and then went into the house to get a change of clothes. While he was out his stenographer in his office smelled escaping gas and went into the bath room and turned it off.

Mr. Sweeney returned and at once discovered that gas had been escaping. He opened the windows to start a draft through and get the gas out. He then lighted the heater again and thinking there was no danger got ready for his bath.

A few minutes later the stenographer heard a peculiar noise in the bath room and called but got no answer. She then called a colored man who is employed there and he came and tried the door and it was locked. Then he broke the door in and when he entered he found Mr. Sweeney in the bath tub unconscious. He was purple in the face and at first it was thought he could not be revived.

Physicians were summoned and after two hours brought him back to consciousness and now he is on the road to recovery. He says the last thing he remembers was reaching for the soap.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS.

Twenty teams were washed out of the Southern Indiana railroad bridge over the Wabash river yesterday morning. The bridge crosses the river near the site of Ft. Harrison.

The national organization of the railroad switchmen is in session at Indianapolis this week.

C. C. Mordough, traveling passenger agent for the C. M. & St. P., was in the city today and made arrangements for the Woodmen to go over his line from Chicago to Milwaukee.

The next annual meeting of the O. R. C. will be held at Memphis. The meeting this year is being held at Portland, Oregon.

Route Chosen.

The Modern Woodmen drill team of this city have selected the route they will take to Milwaukee, the meeting place of the Head Camp this year. They will go to Chicago over the Panhandle and from there to Milwaukee they go over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul. The connections are perfect and when the team lands in Milwaukee they can take a street car right at the station and be carried to the camp ground. Or if they prefer to march there is a boulevard all the way. The Woodmen will leave here June 17. Between thirty and forty will go.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unflinching success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. SENATOR HEMENWAY

Will Be Away From Indiana Most of the Summer.

Indianapolis, May 17.—Senator Jas. A. Hemenway of Louisville left yesterday afternoon for Washington to be present when his daughter graduates tonight from a university at the capital city. He remained at home long enough to cast his vote for Judge Foster of Evansville, who was a candidate to succeed him in congress. Senator Hemenway will be away from Indiana most of the summer. He will remain in Washington several days looking after matters. He is a member of the congressional committee that will attend the opening of the Lewis-Clark exposition at Portland, June 1. He will spend several days at Portland and then start for a trip to Alaska with several members of congress and the senate. He will probably not return to Booneville much before the first of September. Congressman Watson will accompany him to Portland.

A short time ago there was a report that State Senator E. E. Hendee of Anderson would seek the Republican nomination for congress in the Eighth district, which is now represented by George Cromer of Muncie, but some of his friends here said today that he will not be a candidate. It is very likely, however, that Madison county will have a candidate, as it has generally opposed Cromer. The latter is an active politician and keeps his fences in pretty good shape, so it is not at all likely that he will be caught napping. So far he has outgeneraled all of his opponents and his lieutenants are confident that he will be renominated. It is again rumored that Congressman Fred Landis of the Eleventh district will have opposition. George A. H. Shideler of Marion is talked of as a candidate, but it is not known whether or not he will make the race.

Acil Alexander of Marion, assistant secretary of the Indiana St. Louis world's fair commission, was here today. He said the commission will have its last meeting at Marion Saturday morning, at which its affairs will be closed up. The commission made a splendid record. The legislature appropriated $125,000 for the Indiana building and exhibit, but the commission will have over $15,000 to turn back to the state after all bills are met. This record was probably unequalled by any other state. As assistant secretary Mr. Alexander had active charge of Indiana affairs at the exposition grounds, and the popularity of the Indiana building was largely due to his efforts. A history of the Indian exhibit and the work of the commission is now being printed by the state and will soon be ready for distribution.

Oscar Hadley, former treasurer of Hendricks county, has formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for treasurer of state next year. The other candidates already in the race for treasurer are John Dyer of Hammond, T. B. Millikan of Newcast, Jone Monahan of Orleans, and Jake Joel of Crawfordville. All except anyman and Hadley were candidates three years ago. The race promises to be exciting.

DEATH LURKS IN ICE

That is cut from rivers and ponds. Natural ice always contains dirt and dead matter that makes it unfit for use. Our manufactured ice is absolutely pure. With our method of making it is an impossibility for even a particle of dirt or other foreign matter to get into it. It costs no more than filthy natural ice does, and is far more suitable for home and business uses. Orders for our manufactured ice will be promptly attended to. Telephone your orders to our ice plant.

SEEING AMERICA.

Wonderful Scenic Trip Across Rocky Mountains to Oregon Exposition.

In certain respects the excursions to the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition, Portland, Oregon, via Pennsylvania Lines, beginning May 23rd and continuing through the summer, offer advantages never before presented to Exposition visitors. The trip to the Oregon Exposition, in addition to the attractiveness of the extensive exhibits, includes the journey through the scenic wonderland of the Rocky Mountains and the Cascade Range, and what American has not looked forward from the days of the geography class in school to the time when those great sights should be seen in reality? The time was never so favorable as now. The trip may be made less expensive than ever. For only a slight difference in fare tourists may extend their trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles. The return trip may be made over a different route, enabling travelers to view much more of the west. For full particulars, fares, dates of special excursions to Portland on account of conventions, through time and passenger service apply to ticket agent of Pennsylvania Lines.

M. E. CONFERENCE.

Seymour District Meeting at Brownstown Next Week.

The Seymour District Conference of the M. E. church, will meet at Brownstown next week, the first service being on Monday night. All the pastors in the district, the local preachers, exhorters, district stewards and one Sunday school superintendent, one class leader, one Epworth League president and one president of the Ladies' Aid Society, from each charge are members of their body.

A very interesting program has been arranged. A number of papers will be read on subjects pertaining to church work and social life. Seven sermons will be delivered during the session. Six candidates for license to preach will pass their examination. Others will be examined in the course of study prepared for local preachers. Renewing the license of local preachers and exhorters, and recommending candidates for admission into the Annual Conference will be done here. Rev. J. M. Baxter presides over the deliberations of this conference by virtue of the office he holds as presiding elder. The district includes the territory embraced in the counties of Clark, Scott, Jackson, Brown, Bartholomew, the larger part of Johnson and Jennings, with one charge in Morgan, one in Shelby, two preaching points in Jefferson, and one in Decatur. There are about twelve thousand church members in this district, hence this conference will have before it the interests of a large number of churches. The people of Brownstown are making arrangements for entertainment of these ministers and laymen, and that they will do so in a royal manner is already assured because of their known hospitality in times past. The first session of the conference will be Monday evening.
